

Wine & Spice Southeast Asian cuisine uses vibrant, fresh ingredients to create bold flavors. Spice is generally a recurring theme throughout the region and many of the dishes embrace traditional chilies creating fire while some have no spice at all focusing on freshness and texture. Either way, they all want wines from cooler growing climates with tangy, juicy fruit and refreshing acidity that keep you coming back for more.

Reds follow the same rule as whites so the list is driven to softer, fruitier reds that caress the palate. We have a balance of old world showing earthiness, structure and elegance and new world that are bigger, more opulent and lush.

This is our third vintage of Bonney’s and our first vintage of Oceans Collide and I cannot be more proud of these wines. Focus is on harvesting great fruit and not screwing it up in the winery.
